Israel tells U.S. more raids on terrorists not ruled out

By DAVID LANDAU Jerusalem Post Diplomatic Correspondent

Israel has told the U.S. that it considers itself at war with the Arab terrorists and that such actions as Sunday's air raids on terror bases in Lebanon and Syria cannot be ruled out in the future...

Yesterday, Foreign Minister Abba Eban explained the Israeli position to American Ambassador Walworth Barbour after an earlier "clarification" in Washington on Monday...

Officials said that the U.S. understood Israel's stand, although it did not necessarily accept it in all its parts. Relations between Jerusalem and Washington have not suffered noticeably as a result of the raid on the Lebanon...

Mr. Eban explained to Mr. Barbour in their 40-minute talk at the Foreign Ministry that as far as Israel is concerned, the terrorists have declared war on it and it is obliged to act accordingly...

Mr. Eban cited Premier Meir's Knesset speeches in which she asserted that Israel would hit the terrorists wherever it could reach them.

They urged Israel to do everything it is power to ensure that innocent civilians do not get hurt in actions against terrorists. The Israeli side too stressed the precision of the Air Force action.

An official statement issued by the Foreign Ministry after the Eban-Barbour meeting said it had been called by Mr. Eban upon his return from the U.N. General Assembly...

The statement said that the two men had "discussed matters of mutual interest," and that the Foreign Minister had "explained to the Ambassador Israel's policy aimed at cutting down the terrorists' activities."

Park also dissolved Parliament, suspended parts of the constitution and banned all political activity. Press censorship was imposed and all universities and colleges closed "for the time being."

The former army general who came to power in 1961 said amendments to the constitution would be announced by October 27 and submitted to a vote of the people. He said he hoped Korea would return to normal by the end of the year.

Phone waiting list to grow - Peres

Jerusalem Post Knesset Reporter

Half of the people who are expected to apply for telephones over the coming five years have no hope of getting them — unless the Communications Ministry gets a bigger development budget. On the waiting list at present are 110,000 applicants, Minister Shimon Peres told the Knesset yesterday, reviewing the work of the Communications Ministry over the past year.

It would be more natural for the Ministry to meet demand by using its own revenues for its development needs, Mr. Peres said. The fee for telephone installation last went up in 1964, and the rates for calls last went up in 1966, he said.

Last year a record 52,000 new phones were installed, thus expanding the network by 15 per cent in 1971. Israel now has 100,000 phones, compared to 17 in France, 18 in Austria, 31 in Denmark and 46 in Switzerland. Almost 70 per cent of new immigrants applied for telephones over the past two years.

The country's phone exchanges are working at nearly 100 per cent capacity, as compared with 80 per cent capacity customary abroad. This inevitably overloads the network and reduces communications quality, he noted.

The next phone book will have two volumes: one for the Tel Aviv area (pages 01-08) and a second volume for the rest of the country, Mr. Peres said.

On mail, deliveries, he said that a postman has to serve 2,300 people, as compared with 960 in Holland and 460 in Denmark.

Soviets jam broadcasts from Israel

Radio engineers at the Communications Ministry have not yet given up hope of baffling the thousands of transmitters in the Soviet Union which are regularly jamming broadcasts from Israel to Russia, Communications Minister Shimon Peres said in the Knesset yesterday.

The Russians began large-scale jamming in May of this year.

He said the Russians had developed a network of small transmitters in the Soviet Union in the principal cities, and of larger transmitters to prevent reception in the rural areas. He said that, new Arabic language transmitter of Dor u-Idor's at Jerusalem, of 1,200 kilowatt power, was coming in loud and clear all over the Middle East.

(The Post learns that the authorities in charge of broadcasts to the Soviet Union seek to institute early-morning broadcasts at five a.m., when atmospheric conditions are particularly favourable. However, radio technicians are preventing this, since they demand compensation for working an early shift from four a.m., and the Israel Broadcasting management has refused to grant such compensation.)

Munich victims' kin complain of neglect

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The committee dealing with compensation for the families of members of the Israeli Olympic squad killed last month in Munich is to meet today amid reports that the families are being grossly neglected.

The chairman of the committee, Dr. Ya'acov Arnon, former Director-General of the Finance Ministry, told The Jerusalem Post last night that the committee's first task will be "stocktaking" of the compensation and contributions which have poured in. The committee will also decide today on its future operation, and give itself an official name.

Represented on it are the ministries of Education and Finance, the Olympic Committee, Magen David Adom, the National Insurance Institute, and various sports bodies.

The official German compensation of approximately IL2.2m. was addressed to Magen David Adom. In addition there has been a flow of donations from Germany and other parts of the world, addressed to various organizations in Israel.

ILLI,000 A PIECE

Mr. Yosef Inbar, Chairman of the Olympic Committee and leader of the Tel Aviv contingent to Munich, said last night that every bereaved family had so far received between IL11,000 and IL15,000, "and one family a lot more than that."

The National Insurance Institute advanced all the families IL4,000 soon after the tragedy. On memorial day for the victims last week, the Sports Federation delivered cheques of IL2,500 to each of the families, and some days ago MDA sent IL7,500 to the families.

"Several of the next of kin of the 11 athletes have complained that they have been kept in the dark as to the money, toys, clothes and other presents that have been sent for them.

The widow of wrestler Moshe Romano, a mother of three children, said no one had come to her since the tragedy. "I know nothing about the compensation that I should get."

The widow of Moshe Weinberg, the mother of a five-week-old baby, said she was told she would have to leave the Wingate Institute in Netanya where her husband was employed on a regular basis. Later, after a friend approached the Minister of Education, she received an apology for the "misunderstanding."

The family of Ze'ev Friedman of Haifa allegedly boycotted the memorial assembly in Tel Aviv last Thursday as a protest for the treatment, or lack of it, proffered by the authorities concerned. Other families complained at the "run-around" they were given when enquiring about compensation due to them.

The Director-General of the Ministry of Education, Mrs. Elad Peled, said he had personally visited eight of the bereaved families. He said the status of the next of kin was "families of victims of enemy attack."

Gahal has asked for a Knesset debate on the haphazard care given the bereaved families.

Ben-Aharon issues call for socialism

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The Secretary-General of the Histadrut, Mr. Yitzhak Ben-Aharon, yesterday urged the Labour Party to decide at once to introduce socialist reforms that would prevent private persons and groups from acquiring capital. "A party which does not pursue an ideal is bound to crash," Mr. Ben-Aharon said.

He intimated that the Labour Party might split if its leaders break with the teachings of their founders for an egalitarian society.

Mr. Ben-Aharon was speaking at the opening of the third year of the Histadrut Club, which is devoted to academic discussion of labour problems.

Mr. Ben-Aharon envisages a society in which private enterprise would be restricted to families of workers who will be able to earn more but not acquire capital.

Ailing Soviet Jewess gives birth to girl

Jerusalem Post Correspondent

LONDON. — Mrs. Lyudmila Prussakova, the pregnant Jewish woman denied treatment for a stomach tumour, gave birth in Moscow on Saturday to a baby girl. Jewish sources said here.

Both the mother and her child, who she feared might be injured if the tumour were not removed before she gave birth, were reportedly doing well.

Mrs. Prussakova, fired from her job for wanting to emigrate to Israel, came to the attention of the public when her impassioned appeal for help was published in The Jerusalem Post and in leading newspapers in the West. In addition to being pregnant with her first child, she was also suffering from nephritis and from a stomach tumour which Soviet doctors refused to remove before she gave birth, "for lack of hospital space."

Mrs. Prussakova's poor health has been aggravated by the harassment she and her husband Valentine have been subjected to during the past two years, since they applied for an exit permit to go to Israel.

Last week, in apparent response to the publicity which the case had raised, the Ministry of Health in Moscow sent Mrs. Prussakova a letter assuring her she would be given proper medical attention both during the birth and for the tumour. She received a similar letter from her local health clinic.

Mrs. Prussakova still faces an operation for the tumour. And the authorities still refuse to grant either her or her husband permission to emigrate to Israel.

Sapir urges colleges to trim their sails

By SARAH HONIG, Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir yesterday called on institutions of higher learning to curtail their expansion rate. The Government would not long be able to carry the burden of campus development as it has been thus far, he said.

Mr. Sapir was speaking at the opening session of the Tel Aviv University Board of Governors.

He called for a "most brilliant example of enterprising growth" in the 25-year history of the State of Israel.

Mr. Sapir said that on the other hand, Government expenditure on higher education has consistently increased at a swifter pace than any other budget item, including defence. The Minister told the 160 Board members that the time has come to ease the burden on the Government, whose allocation to universities has outstripped IL200m. in 1970 to IL400m. in 1972.

He called on Board Chairman Victor Carter to bring his energy to bear on mobilising the resources of Jewish on behalf of higher education in Israel — "which is not only important to us because of the value we attach to learning for its own sake but also because we have to maintain the highest technological competence for security reasons."

Jewish Agency Executive Chairman, Mr. Arye Pincus, called on the Board to consider the possibility of joint fund-raising campaigns to be launched annually or bi-annually by all of Israel's universities jointly to eliminate the competition between them. Mr. Carter promised that the Board would give this suggestion due consideration.

The Board also heard University Chancellor George Wise and University President Yuval Ne'eman read out the annual report. Prof. Ne'eman disclosed that Dr. Wise had contributed $500,000 for an auditorium to serve the University's new Department of Art and Communication.

Later in the day Deputy Minister of Transport Gad Ya'acobi attended the inauguration of the United Kingdom Building for Life Sciences.

Citrus Board: 'Area' hands needed to pick fruit

Jerusalem Post Staff

TEL AVIV. — Grove owners will have to bring in at least 4,000 more Arab workers from the administered territories during the January-April picking and packing season, according to Citrus Marketing Board head Aharon Hildesheimer.

Mr. Hildesheimer told Galei Zahal there would be no other way to meet the severe seasonal citrus labour shortage. He said that only 3,000 of the 10,000 pickers were available in the local labour market, and only 5,000 of the 9,000 needed to pack the fruit. The Employment Service has promised to provide the 7,000 missing pickers by diverting people from other fields, he added, but there will still be no source within the Green Line for the missing 4,000 pickers.

Mr. Hildesheimer's statement is in clear opposition to the recently expressed position of Labour Minister Yosef Almog, who has come out against a further influx of Arab labour from the areas. Mr. Almog has proposed alternative ways of meeting the shortage, such as mobilising students and new immigrants as was done last year.

Meanwhile, a number of legal complaints were made yesterday against employers and workers in the Hevela area after an Employment Service swoop on settlements and kibbutzim in the area turned up 100 unauthorised Arab workers from the West Bank and Gaza. Some 50 Arab workers, all lacking work permits from labour government, were found hired out by labour subcontractors to kibbutzim.

Swindlers victimize would-be 007s

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — A group of swindlers impersonating Israeli security agents reportedly managed to cheat at least five families out of tens of thousands of pounds during the past few weeks.

A 17-year-old from Rishon LeZion, arrested as a member of the ring and later released, told police he was "recruited" by two men impersonating security agents two years ago. The two offered him a job in the "service" posting him at a Tel Aviv bowling alley. His job was to keep an eye on soldiers and to report anything suspicious.

He said the pair collected IL21,000 from him as "a bond for his good behaviour."

About six weeks ago, immediately after the Munich murders, the youth said, the two "agents" told him the security service was now to be enlarged, and he was about to be promoted. His first job, though, would be to recruit more "agents."

The youth went to nearby Beit Dagon, where he recruited four more youngsters into the "service." Each was promised a different job, and each was given a different grade, according to the amount of money — ranging from IL1,000 to IL3,980 — deposited by the family as a "bond for good behaviour."

The young "recruiting officer" was caught when he tried to sign up a fifth youngster from Yavne. The father of the "recruit," Yitzhak Hasut, became suspicious after he paid IL7,000, and decided to complain to police.

The Tel Aviv fraud squad took charge of the investigation and arrested the youth from Rishon.

Police had obtained a court ban on publication of the case, claiming it would hinder searches for the two suspects still at large. After the story leaked out, however, police and the court agreed yesterday to lift the ban.

Doctors review treatment of diabetic children

Jerusalem Post Reporter

NETANYA. — Children with diabetes should be kept out of insulin as long as possible, Dr. Helen Pond, of King's College Hospital in London, told the participants at the Second International Bellinson Symposium on Diabetes in Juveniles yesterday. The symposium is being held at the Beitlan Aharon rest home near here.

Dr. Pond added that the delay in using insulin (although oral preparations such as sulfonylureas may be given) allows the child to adjust to a diabetic life and to develop good diet habits before he switches from oral preparations to insulin injections. Children she studied who were kept off insulin injections until absolutely necessary "maintained normal health," she said.

Other speakers were not wholly in agreement with her statements.

Big cut in travel tax in Zim winter cruises

By YAACOV FRIEDLER
Jerusalem Post Reporter

MFA — The Internal Revenue Department has agreed to allow a 400 exemption from the 150 travel tax for Israelis taking shipboard cruises during the winter months, The Post learned yesterday. The exemption applies to shipping companies which offer a year-round service to Israel, so that in fact it will be only on the Zim passenger ships Dan and Nili.

terranean ports in Turkey, Italy, and France. The cruises would last five, seven or ten days. The price would amount to about 11,100 per day per person, plus the tax, and would include all services and meals on board, as well as sightseeing tours in the ports of call according to the groups' own wishes.

He hoped the exemption would bring the firm more passengers during the winter off season. "Our losses are now about 500,000 a year, which the Treasury covers. They are incurred only during the off season. During the summer we cover costs, and if the new winter-cruise scheme catches on, as I expect it will, we will reduce our losses and perhaps eventually cut them out altogether. In the final analysis the Treasury will not lose on the exemption if he is granted," he said.

He noted that he had originally proposed the scheme when he first took over management of the company more than two years ago. "Though it took two years for the agreement to come through, and though my proposal was pared down to a partial exemption, I still welcome it," he said.

He noted that if by attracting winter passengers he would be able to keep both ships busy (one is now laid up), it would also solve the crew problems, as he had to keep the crew year round, especially the more skilled men.

The Civil Servants' Union has already contracted for a cruise for 500 of its members for December, but the final signature is being delayed pending the granting of the exemption. Other enterprises have also expressed interest in chartering a cruise for their employees. In addition, smaller groups of at least 10 persons would also be able to join the cruises.

Terrorist gets three times life or school blast

Jerusalem Post Reporter

IA — A 45-year-old Rafah terrorist convicted of blowing up two schools in his home town was given a three life sentence plus 25 years by a military court here yesterday.

The man, Suleiman Al-Manawi, a member of the Palestine Liberation Forces, was captured April in connection with the explosion which completely destroyed rooms of a Rafah elementary school but caused no casualties.

Manawi, who had also planted mines on the road to the school, given one life sentence for the school blasts. The second was the mines, which the police disarmed without incident.

A terrorist got his third life sentence for an arms cache he had hidden in a local cave. This time he was given 460 mortar shells, 15000 shells, 13 grenades, rifles and a considerable quantity of ammunition.

ix jailed, two freed in big hashish case

AVIV — The trial of eight men in the attempt to smuggle hashish out of the country from a mulated shock-absorber factory in Ramat Gan ended yesterday at the District Court. Two of the suspects were acquitted and a third sentenced to 18 months in prison.

The other suspects were previously sentenced to terms ranging from one to five years. The man masterminded the scheme, Yosef Friedman, succeeded in fleeing the country.

He captured 86 kg. of hashish, of it in Ramat Gan, and the in an agricultural-equipment house in Ramle.

Two accused who were acquitted, Yehuda Hatuka and Haim Kravitz, the judge said, knew the scheme, but it was not they that took part in it.

The owner of the warehouse in Ramat Gan had no knowledge of the hashish being smuggled, the judge said. He was interested in buying the hashish.

Yosef Friedman, twin brother of Yehuda Friedman, was sentenced to 18 months. While his role was active as that of his brother, Avraham Hatuka said, he helped participate in preparing hashish shipments. However, the other accused had received sentences, the judge felt he should be lenient with him as well.

Tel Aviv youths arrested in drive on hooliganism

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV — Four youths, all aged 16, were arrested on Monday as part of the police crackdown on hooliganism. The four were picked up after allegedly setting off cherry bombs (noise-making devices) and shouting during a show at the Noga Cinema in Jaffa.

Another four youths were arrested on Monday after they allegedly broke in on the showing of a film to students of the municipal high school on Ben Yehuda.

Nitzav David Ofer, commander of the Tel Aviv police, told The Jerusalem Post yesterday that the campaign against hooliganism will continue until it is eradicated. Nitzav Ofer added that the campaign is being waged with the aid of border policemen recently transferred to duty in Tel Aviv.

The deployment of the Border Police has noticeably reduced the crime rate in the Tel Aviv area. Complaints about rowdiness in cinemas and other public places there have also decreased, Police Minister Shlomo Hillel told the Interior Committee yesterday.

The police fraud squad here has ordered an all-out hunt for a gang of thieves who specialize in stealing cars and reselling them with forged documents. The gang changes the car's license plate and shows a prospective client forged papers.

Fraud squad investigators have already discovered two stolen automobiles sold in this manner. The gang apparently specializes in Peugeot 404s.

TV bribe probe renewed

TEL AVIV — Several persons were questioned at National Police headquarters here Monday night as police renewed their inquiry into alleged bribe-taking at Israel Television.

The inquiry grows out of the suspension last month of a TV scriptwriter and cameraman on suspicion they had taken a bribe for getting a certain entertainment group on television. The chief of the police's investigation team, Rav Fakad Moshe Katz, is now trying to determine the writer's and cameraman's exact job responsibilities.

Meir Zorea: Public should benefit from cheap State land

Jerusalem Post Economic Correspondent

There should be a controlling authority to make sure that the cheap, subsidized price charged for plots by the Lands Administration gets through to the end-user — the householder — Mr. Meir Zorea, newly appointed head of the L.A., told a meeting of the trade union club in Jerusalem yesterday.

Land in public housing schemes is supposed to account for only eight per cent of the apartment price, he said. "We made another mistake in failing to inform the public about land prices. But that alone would not have been enough. Suppose a purchaser lends the plot to a tenant for 100,000, what could he do if he refused to pay the apartment price asked by the housing company, they would simply sell it to someone else."

Mr. Zorea did not differentiate on this point between publicly and privately owned housing companies. He recognized that some things are wrong with the Lands Administration, which he took over only three months ago. The trouble goes back to the days of the Jewish National Fund, which was supposed to allocate land only for specific purposes, generally agricultural.

Former employees in the J.N.F., the Custodian of Abandoned Property, the Development Authority, as a result there are overlaps, "dead ground," officials without the proper qualifications. Too much importance is given to seniority.

Procedures are outdated. Agriculture still has top priority, at a time of swift urbanization.

FALL BEHIND

On the other hand he cautioned that delays in supplying land for construction are inevitable, and exist in all countries. Parcelation is a slow process, requiring masterplans first, assessments, and a lapse of time to allow for appeals from members of the public. "Building is going on at a breathtaking pace in Israel,

Farkas declared of sound mind in drug trial

NAZARETH — Ex-convict Nahman Farkas, arrested two months ago for growing hashish and striking the secretary of the nature-food moshav that was rehabilitating him, was declared responsible for his actions by a court-appointed psychiatrist this week.

District Court Judge Yosef Margalit had ordered Farkas, famous for his many jailbreaks, committed to Rambam Hospital in Haifa for observation last month. Farkas had turned himself in on August 14 after the ruckus at the Galilee nature-food village of Amirim, which had "adopted" him.

Judge Margalit yesterday rejected an appeal by Farkas's counsel to have him let off this time with a suspended sentence. But he agreed to put off sentencing for 10 days to permit Farkas's well-wishers, who include Amirim residents and Farkas's nine-month pregnant girlfriend, to present a new plan for his "rehabilitation."

J'lem abattoir to be modernized — then moved

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Some 11,500-200,000 is to be invested in the Jerusalem municipal slaughterhouse on French Hill, despite the fact that it will probably be moved in about two years. Two mechanical slaughter pens, valued at 11,500,000, are to be installed in order to improve sanitary conditions and reduce necessary manpower.

The Municipal spokesman said last night that the improvements in sanitation justify the investment in the doomed slaughterhouse.

The Municipality plans to move the slaughterhouse eastwards to the vicinity of Anata, further away from the housing developments being built on French Hill. The exact site is expected to be chosen in about three months and the new building completed about two years thereafter.

Mr. Zorea promises that three years from now, efficiency will be better in the L.A. Land will henceforth be allocated only for specific and approved purposes. It will be sold only by public tender, or (where this does not apply) at a price fixed by the Official Assessor.

Girl charges she was framed in photographs

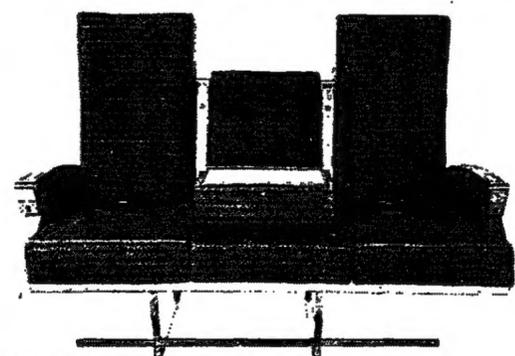

BEERSHEVA — An 18-year-old girl has complained to police that she was forcibly photographed in a compromising position solely to fabricate evidence against her in a paternity suit she has lodged.

The girl told police she had been intimate with a local resident and became pregnant two years ago. When she informed the man of her condition, he fled to France, and she later gave birth to a son. Two months ago the man returned to Israel, and she sued him for support for herself and the child.

The defendant's brother, her complaint went on, invited her to a party at a friend's house, and there he and the friend forced her to undress, and took pictures of her with the friend hugging her. They said they would use the photos to demonstrate to the court that she was a loose girl, and that the son she bore was not necessarily the defendant's.

Police began an investigation. No arrests have been made yet. (Itim)

Riots in Chile continue

SANTIAGO (AP). — Chilean riot police fired dozens of tear gas canisters yesterday to disperse opposing demonstrators in downtown Santiago as water cannon sprayed the crowds.

Police intervened between groups of Marxists and anti-Marxists tearing across the street at each other less than a block away from the Moneda presidential palace as Harold Edelstam, Sweden's new Ambassador to Chile, presented his credentials to President Salvador Allende. Motorized patrols of troops were more in evidence in the centre of the capital yesterday than on Monday, when similar demonstrations took place as shopkeepers kept their shutters closed in defiance of government orders to allow a show of sympathy with striking truckers.

A half-dozen square blocks of Santiago's business district, including Calle Ahumada, the main commercial street, were blanketed with barrages of tear gas from riot police squads as crowds spilled across intersections and sidewalks. More people were in evidence yesterday, probably because of a high school strike called by the opposition-controlled Federation of Secondary School Students.

Queen Elizabeth visits Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (UPI). — Queen Elizabeth of England and members of the royal family arrived yesterday for the first visit of a reigning British monarch to a Communist country.

Before a hushed crowd of spectators and government officials at Belgrade's Surcin airport, the Queen stepped down from a two-engine Trident jet with her husband Prince Philip and their daughter Princess Anne for a four-day state visit.

Twenty-one muted artillery discharges echoed across the Surcin plain as a grinning President Tito and his wife Jovanka clasped the hands of the British royals.

The Queen came dressed in a simple, sky-blue wool ensemble, with a matching helmet-shaped hat complete with a white visor shielding the royal forehead. Black shoes with silver heels and a diamond circle

Soviet space 'architect' visiting U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP). — The scientific architect of the Soviet Union's space programme, academician Matvei Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, is here for his first, and hitherto unannounced, visit to the United States.

Heading a delegation of five other Soviet scientists representing various scientific disciplines, Keldysh came at the invitation of Dr. Phillip Handler, president of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences. The scientists will visit American space and other science facilities at various points in the U.S.

Confirming an unofficial report that Keldysh was here, an academy spokesman said the visit had not been announced in advance because of possible "activities of the Jewish Defence League."

Keldysh, one of Russia's outstanding scientists in the field of mathematics and applied mechanics, organized and initiated his country's space programme.

He is scheduled to talk to members of the academy during their usual private business meeting held during the academy's autumn scientific meeting.

Sino-Soviet border talks may resume

TOKYO (AP). — Leonid Iyichov, Soviet chief negotiator in the Sino-Soviet border talks in Peking, has returned to the Chinese capital, Moscow Radio said yesterday.

Moscow Radio, in a Japanese-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said Soviet Ambassador to China Vadim Tolstikov has also returned to his post in Peking.

Reports from Moscow earlier said the Sino-Soviet border talks, which have been going on without any sign of success since October 1969, could be expected to resume this month. The talks have been in recess in recent months with Iyichov home on vacation.

The talks were started to ease tension on the long Sino-Soviet border and resolve territorial disputes between the two countries.

May expel other Asians, Amin says

KAMPALA (AP). — President Idi Amin has told Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta he may expel Kenyan, Tanzanian and Zambian Asians here because they intended to take over businesses left behind by other Asian expellees, Uganda Radio said yesterday.

The radio said Amin made known his intention in a telephone conversation with Kenyatta on Monday. He said the Kenyan leader "should not be shocked if he hears of their expulsion."

Under existing legislation, only citizens of Britain, Bangladesh, India and Pakistan are required to leave Uganda by November 8, the deadline for the expulsion.

Vietcong seize five villagers

SAIGON (AP). — Military spokesmen reported yesterday that Communist-led forces seized a half dozen government hamlets in the Central Highlands, but one of them was retaken by Gung.

The spokesman disclosed that the new wave of attacks on villages had been ordered by a mysterious new Communist command directive code-named Resolution X10 calling for political cadres to plant the Vietcong flag in as many villages and hamlets as possible.

"This is a form of political struggle," said one South Vietnamese officer. He said he did not know if the new directive was issued in anticipation of an Indochina cease-fire.

Other sources said the Communist command is trying to establish a wide presence in South Vietnam. In the event of a cease-fire, the Communist side would want to claim as much territory and population control in South Vietnam as they could, thus strengthening their bargaining position.

Five of the hamlets are located 15 kms. southwest of Kontum City and 20 to 40 kms. south of Pleiku City. The sixth is in Phu Bon province southeast of Pleiku. Reinforcements were trying to reach some of the hamlets, but in at least one case were encountering stiff resistance.

Amin told Kenyatta the military situation in Uganda was "improving fast," the radio said, and "happily accepted" an invitation to visit Kenya for "a few days' rest."

Earlier, Amin announced the dismissal with disgrace of a military police lieutenant who had deserted his troops during last month's invasion from Tanzania, raped a nurse and shot a civilian in the back.

Amin said the man had been transferred from an earlier posting for "similar offences," and had been harassing civilians at gunpoint in luxury hotels in Kampala. It was "hopeless and stupid" of him to have deserted his troops, he added.

Asian expellees who fail to register their businesses with the Ministry of Commerce and Industry here before leaving Uganda will not only lose them but face imprisonment and a heavy fine, under a new decree signed by President Amin.

China takes its seat at Unesco

PARIS (AP). — The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (Unesco) general conference opened here yesterday with delegates from Communist China attending for the first time, and immediately had to face money problems.

The Communist Chinese, led by Ambassador to France Huang Chen, and including Professor Chang Wei, a physics teacher at Peking University — both in blue Mao-style jackets — were welcomed by Attilio Elloro Maini of Argentina, who made the opening speech as outgoing president of the conference.

Communist China entered Unesco following its admission to the U.N. last year, but had not attended a Unesco general conference, which meets once every two years.

The money problems were caused by 10 of the 129 member states who failed to pay their share in the costs of the organization for more than one year. They were Bolivia, Chad, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Haiti, Laos, Paraguay, Portugal and Yemen. They faced a possible exclusion from voting at the conference.

Hayley wins $45,000 in tax appeal

LONDON (AP). — The Appeal Court ruled yesterday that actress Hayley Mills is due for a $45,000 — $180,000 — rebate from the tax man.

The tax was levied in Britain on Miss Mills' earnings as the Hollywood child star of "Pollyanna" and other movies.

The court reversed a lower court's ruling and held that a tax-saving scheme initiated by Hayley's actor father John Mills was legitimate. The decision is subject to final appeal to the House of Lords.

Ousted from China, opt for U.K.

HONGKONG (AP). — Two half-Chinese British brothers deported from China last Saturday said at a news conference here yesterday that their allegiance is with Britain although they have never been there.

Percy and Frederick Farmer were born in China of an English father and a Chinese mother and had not previously left China.

Percy, 46, the only one able to speak English, did all the talking and repeatedly referred to "my government" meaning the British government.

At one point he said that since their arrival in Hongkong "the British government has looked after us and we are proud of the British government." Percy was cheerful throughout the news conference, which was conducted partly in Mandarin. Frederick, 45, listened intently to those portions which were in Mandarin but did not smile.

Percy, who is unmarried, said they had long wanted to leave China but family complications had prevented this. In 1959, he said, they were in touch with Canadian officers who suggested the whole family go immediately to Canada.

Parlour tricks

WASHINGTON (AP). — The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday gave a Virginia City authority to close massage parlours where women give rubdowns to men.

The city contended the parlours were nothing but "euphemistic aliases" for houses of prostitution, and noted that one operator "conceded that his girls massaged 'every part of the (male patron's) body, and that includes every part of the body.'"

Referring to the charges against them, Percy said they were accused of breaking Chinese law by spreading rumours and speculation. He denied the accusations. He was asked if he denied the charges at his trial and answered: "A few minutes before the trial the judge told me if there was any retelling or relaying of the accusations I aliases" may receive a heavier sentence, so it seemed wise to say nothing."

The brothers were sentenced to seven years' imprisonment, then deported.

Percy said his English grandfather, a noncommissioned officer with the British Navy, arrived in China in 1880. Later he became "constable in charge of the British Consulate" at Yinkou. His wife was British.

Percy's father was born in China in 1884 and spent his whole life there as a merchant in the shipping business. Two years before he died in 1956, Percy said, the Chinese confiscated all his property, including houses and land. Percy and Frederick owned a truck and, because they were foreigners, were able to keep it while Chinese could not own vehicles, Percy said. As owner-drivers they earned 400 to 500 yuan (about $276 to $345).

Throughout the news conference, Percy was at pains to stress that the brothers received "very, very good" treatment during their detention. They were given more food than Chinese prisoners, he said, but admitted they were allowed no visitors and did not see each other for the full five years of their detention up to their trial a week ago. While in his cell, Percy said, he "just kept silent and prayed to God."

He was allowed out of his one-man cell, measuring two by four metres, only about 40 times, he said.

On Peron anniversary Bomb kills woman at Buenos Aires Sheraton

Buenos Aires (AP). — A bomb in a 22nd-floor room of the new Sheraton Hotel killed a Canadian woman on Monday night and gravely wounded her husband and an American woman. Supporters of ex-dictator Juan Peron were blamed. Smoke and fire belched from the aged hole in the southeast wing of the steel and concrete building after the blast at dusk. Nearly 700 guests fled into the streets, but the fire was quickly brought under control and did not spread.

A chain of bombings burst across Argentina on Monday as Peronist guerrillas marked their leader's ascendancy to power 27 years ago. The only other casualties reported in the rash of explosions were a navy captain and a neighbour, both rounded when a bomb went off in front of the office's entrance in a Buenos Aires suburb. Most of the bombs were placed at the homes of army officers.

Some 500 university students roved into downtown Buenos Aires Monday, distributed pro-Peron leaflets and tried to block the streets but police dispersed them. More demonstrations and bombings were expected as Peronist militants marked October 17, 1946, when an estimated half million workers massed in Buenos Aires and forced the release of Peron from jail. He was elected president four months later, established his dictatorship, was ousted by a military coup in 1955 and is now living in exile in Madrid.

The 25-storey Sheraton Hotel was built by a subsidiary of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. It had received several bomb threats from leftist guerrillas since opening last August. Many of the guests were here for an international forestry congress or for the world amateur men's team golf championship.

The bomb went off at 6:20 p.m. in room 2204, which had been rented by two men who gave addresses in Rosario and Mar del Plata. A section of the corridor wall 20 feet square was pulverized and the blast ripped into room 2203 across the hall where Gerald Crozier, 35, and his wife, Lois, 28, of West Vancouver, Canada, were talking with Patricia Trakas, 30, of Milton, Massachusetts. Crozier was rescued first by firemen and was conscious as they rushed him to an ambulance. His badly burned wife was brought out minutes later and died in Fernandez Hospital. Miss Trakas, who suffered concussion and burns, and Crozier were listed in grave condition.

The Canadian golf team was on the 21st floor under the blast. "I was talking on the telephone when there was this very loud noise," said Marian Sims of Toronto, the president of the Canadian Ladies Golf Association. "The building shook a little, and when we saw the men in the hallway with fire extinguishers we shouted, 'Gang, let's go!' and walked down the stairway. There was no panic."

Plane with two U.S. Congressmen missing
JUNEAU, Alaska (AP). — The U.S. Air Force launched a search for an overdue small plane carrying U.S. House of Representatives majority leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana and representative Nick Begich on Monday. "We assume that the airplane is down," a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said. The twin-engine Cessna 310 plane, carrying four persons, was due to land at meau on Monday night on a stop flight from Anchorage, where Boggs had been campaigning for Begich.

Italian convict gets 5th poetry prize
SERENO, Italy (AP). — Alfredo Bonassi, serving a 24-year prison term for a 1960 murder, has been awarded his fifth major prize for poetry. The latest was the Valerina National Literary Prize granted to the Porto Azzurro prison convict on Monday for his poem "Secret Absence."

Soviet missile expert defects to Italy
GENOVA, Italy (AP). — A man described as a Soviet missile expert asked Italian authorities on Monday for political asylum. Police identified him as Jono Morkunas Lenghinis, 45, an electronics engineer who came to Italy with a Soviet tourist group last Friday.

Lebanese speaker
BEIRUT (UPI). — The Lebanese parliament yesterday re-elected Khalil Assad as its speaker, Beirut did said. Assad got 82 votes while three abstained. The other 14 members were sent, the radio said. Fouad Ghomri also re-elected as deputy speaker.

MAFIA HOME — Newsmen crowd into trailer in an auto junkyard in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn to see the alleged headquarters of the five New York Mafia families after Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold announced a massive probe into underworld activities. Mr. Gold ripped a thin piece of plywood panelling from the ceiling of the trailer to show reporters a microphone the size of a cigarette pack which police used to bug conversations between gangland figures. The first of 677 suspects served with subpoenas began appearing before a grand jury yesterday. (AP radiophoto)

N. Yemenis seize arms sent by Gaddafi

BEIRUT (AP). — North Yemen withdrew his representative from an Arab League mission that is trying to end the three-week border war between the two Yemens, the sources said. "Many of our men were arrested by the North Yemenis after they took the island and all our efforts to secure their release have been futile so far," they added.

Kamaran Island is a few miles off the coast of North Yemen but was under South Yemen sovereignty. It is more than 300 kms. from the South Yemen mainland. Gaddafi was the only Arab leader actively supporting the predominantly Moslem Eritrean rebels who have been trying for 10 years to obtain independence of the former Italian colony from Ethiopia. He also supported dissident Southern Yemenis in North Yemen trying to overthrow the Marxist regime in Aden, where the Eritreans have their headquarters.

South Yemen forces shelled a North Yemen border town on Monday, the Middle East News Agency reported yesterday. Quoting a military source, the agency said the shelling injured a great number of villagers. Eight other party members were sentenced to eight-year terms. They were charged with violating a law which bans organizations aimed at establishing dominance of one social class over another or attempting to change the basic economic order.

The court accused them of Marxist-Leninist aims and "systematically undermining the administration of the nation to attain their secret aims." It is said they provoked Turkish youth to revolutionary activities which led to many of them being killed. The defendants were permanently deprived of their right to participate in politics or serve in state jobs including teaching positions.

Turkish party leaders jailed
ANKARA (AP). — A martial law court yesterday sentenced 13 leaders of the banned Turkish Labour Party, including Party Chairman Mrs. Behice Boran, to 15 years in prison.

Amnesty due in Russia

MOSCOW (UPI). — A general amnesty will be declared shortly to mark the 50th anniversary of the foundation of the U.S.S.R., Communist sources said yesterday. The jubilee will be observed on December 30 at special ceremonies in Moscow in the presence of the top leaders of all the Communist countries except China and Albania. High level representatives of non-Communist powers will also be invited to attend.

The last Soviet amnesty was declared on October 31, 1967 on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. The 1967 amnesty, like all previous ones, applied to ordinary misdemeanours and felonies and did not affect acts described as "especially dangerous crimes against the state."

POLITICAL CRIMES
The amnesty did not apply to political crimes such as anti-Soviet propaganda. For this reason writers Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel, who had been sentenced to seven and five years respectively for publishing anti-Soviet satire abroad, were not released.

The current amnesty is expected to contain the same general provisions as that of 1967. "Political prisoners," a category which Soviet law does not recognize, are not expected to benefit from the amnesty.

U.S. to admit Syrian official

DAMASCUS (UPI). — The U.S. State Department has reversed its decision denying a Syrian Foreign Ministry official an entry visa to attend the current U.N. meetings, a Foreign Ministry source said yesterday.

The source said the ministry had been notified that the director of the Organizations Department at the Foreign Ministry, Diya' Uddin Fattal, will be allowed entry to the U.S. to attend the meetings of the international organization. Fattal is expected to fly to New York later this week, the source said.

In an official statement October 7, the Foreign Ministry described the ban imposed on Fattal as "a precedent with serious results for the U.N. and a serious threat which calls for the transfer of the U.N. to some place outside America."

AFTER NIGHT OF RIOTS Ulster Protestants may attack British

BELFAST (UPI). — The militant Protestant Ulster Defence Association said yesterday it is considering taking the offensive against the British Army. This military source said, is the situation the Army has been trying to avoid since it moved in more than three years ago to try to keep the peace in Northern Ireland. With the U.D.A. joining the Irish Republican Army on the offensive, every hand would be turned against British troops.

The warning came from U.D.A. Vice-Chairman Tommy Herron after a night of rioting in east Belfast in which British Army vehicles ran down and killed a Protestant man and a boy. With two men shot by soldiers at Coagh, 80 kms. southwest of Belfast, their deaths raised the toll for the Northern Ireland campaign to 600 dead.

"It is quite possible we may go on the offensive," Herron told a news conference. He said an outbreak of open warfare was "one of the possibilities." He said U.D.A. chiefs were meeting later yesterday to consider the situation. As far as the U.D.A. was concerned, he said, the policemen of the Royal Ulster Constabulary were lumped in with the Army. He said the U.D.A. had not directed the night's rioting in east Belfast.

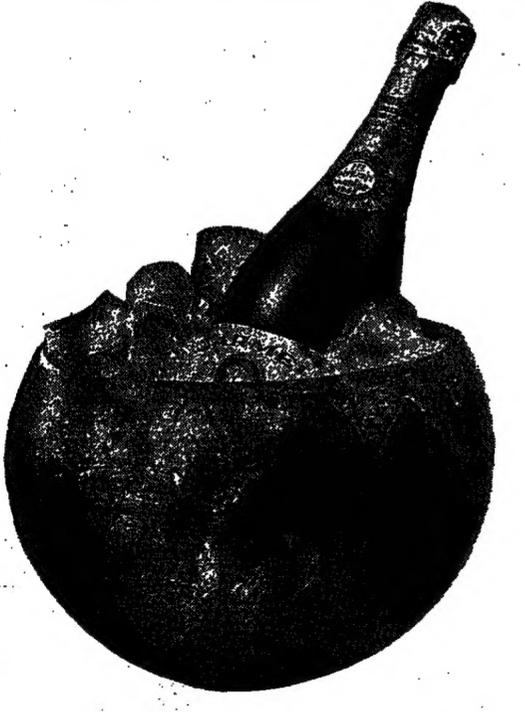

81 IN COURT
A total of 81 men, some with bandages on their heads and others limping, appeared in court yesterday on charges connected with the riots. All were remanded on bail until later this month. Meanwhile, the U.D.A. carried its counter-attack against the I.R.A. over the border into the Republic of Ireland for the first time yesterday, bombing a fertilizer factory in the village of Carrigans from which they said the I.R.A. was getting fertilizer supplies to make explosives.

Third Series game in California
OAKLAND, California (AP). — The Oakland Athletics were ready to face the Cincinnati Reds on home ground last night after defeating them in the first two games of U.S. baseball's world Series. (Oakland time is nine hours behind Israel time, and results were not available as of press time.)

The surprising American League champions were sitting pretty with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 baseball classic as a result of 3-2 and 2-1 victories in Cincinnati over the weekend. Added to this margin, the A's also had the theoretical advantage of the home field in the next three games of this best-of-seven showdown for the world's championship.

After playing on Riverfront Stadium's unfamiliar artificial surface, the A's returned home to their field of natural grass at the Oakland Coliseum. MONEY. — Banknotes rained into the street in Lima, Peru, when four-year old Miguel Kakamura found his uncle's savings and scattered them from a second floor window. Some of the money was recovered but about $50 worth had gone with the wind.

Tennis winner gives back the prize money
BOCA RATON, Florida (AP). — Chris Evert made her last appearance as an amateur on Sunday in the $100,000 Virginia Slims tennis championship and saved the promoters of the tournament one-fourth of the prize money. Miss Evert, who will turn professional on her 18th birthday on December 21, did not accept the first prize of $25,000 after she defeated Australian Kerry Melville 7-5, 6-4 in the final of the world's richest women's tennis tournament. Amateurs are not permitted to accept prize money. Miss Evert had to make a big comeback to overtake the 25-year-old Miss Melville. The Australian held a 5-2 lead and took a 15-40 advantage on Miss Evert's service in the eighth game before the high school senior rallied to win eight straight games. Miss Melville won $15,000 for second place. Miss Evert's prize money was returned to the promoters and she said after the match that she will not play again until she turns pro. Top-seeded Billie Jean King, U.S., was forced to default her consolation match to Francoise Durr of France because of illness.

When deception reigns supreme

YOU may not have many opportunities to deceive your opponents, but when you do... Today's two deceptive plays were described in the Johannesburg Bridge Bulletin.

BRIDGE By George Levinson

He hoped to induce South to play a high ♣. So he overtook the ♠ with the K and shot back his last ♠. What was South to do? It was against the odds that East had four hearts, and unlikely also that they should include specifically the 10 and 9.

Some time ago I wrote about "bad manners" at the bridge table which often drive away participants who otherwise would be assets in tournament play.

There is danger if North should hold the ♠K and switches to a ♠ that you will be set, losing three spades, a ♥ and a ♣. You are relatively certain from the lead of the 3 that the hearts are evenly divided, so if 2 hearts are contained you will make nine tricks, losing only three hearts and a ♠.

His partner, pianist Yonathan Zak, deserves unqualified praise. His accomplishments have gained lately in intrinsic feeling and effortless balance. He was fully capable of conveying the beauty, harmony and diversity of the work.

Silver medallion for Golda Meir

By Mary Selman
Jerusalem Post Reporter

PRIME Minister Golda Meir was awarded the Silver Medallion of the Mirachi Women's Organization of America in a warm ceremony in the Prime Minister's Office on Sunday.

Presenting the medallion, which has been awarded in the last two years to Mrs. Rahel Shazar, the president's wife, and Soviet immigrant Ruth Alexandrovich, Mrs. Ruth Jacobson, national president of the organization, praised the wisdom, courage and leadership of the Prime Minister. "You represent for all of us the pinnacle of what one woman can achieve," Mrs. Jacobson told Mrs. Meir as she placed the medallion over the Prime Minister's shoulders and kissed her on both cheeks. "When you came to Israel from Milwaukee you didn't come to liberate yourself, but to liberate your people."

Mrs. Meir replied that a person as "nothing coming to him for being here for 50 years. I don't intend to give the impression that it race, she nevertheless said that there has never been such good understanding and relationship between Israel and the U.S. as there is now.

The Mirachi Women's Organization of America has 50,000 members and supports nine institutions for underprivileged children in Israel. The task force of 20 now in Israel meeting with ministers and education experts constitutes the first phase in this year's convention. In the second phase, at the end of this month in New York's Waldorf Astoria, the task force will report to nationwide representatives on what they saw in Israel and where help is needed. The third and last phase will be "mini-conventions" all over the U.S. to impart the information.

A large number of young women, on their first visit to Israel, were represented in the task force, enough to spark comment from the Prime Minister. "You remember," she began a tale of some Israeli pioneers, and then corrected herself. "So many young faces," she said with a smile. "Perhaps you don't remember."

Liver dishes

By Molly Lyons Bar-David

THERE'S an ancient legend about the "Liver Knishes mit Nesomes — Pâtés with Souls." Jewish women lay claim to the knish, especially the one like the kniddle (dumpling) with a soul. Alas, I have to destroy that grand illusion, for the knish is the son of the aristocratic "pâté de foie gras with a soul" first created in 1783 for Contades, Marshal of France, while he was serving in Alsace. The foie gras was surrounded by chopped veal and encased in "armour" of baked pastry, with a truffle tucked into the pâté for a "soul."

Liver Pâtés with Souls
1 cup margarine, 3 cups sifted flour, 1 cup boiling water, 1/2 tbsps. melted margarine.

The filling:
1 cup chopped liver — either goose, chicken, beef, 1 chopped onion, salt (graben); if you do not use crock-and-pepper, 1 egg, small crackling ring then you can put a small cube of sausage in the middle.

Liver Dumplings
Grill the liver and grind it for 1 cup, 1 large onion, 1/2 cups of soup (or boiling water mixed with soup powder — 1 tbsp.), 1/2 cups matza meal, 2 large eggs beaten up well, 4 tablespoons of oil or fat, dash of any spice you prefer — nutmeg, white of garlic salt, or any meat spice — salt and pepper to taste.

Put the liver and the onion through a meat chopper. Pour the boiling water along with the soup powder (or the soup), over the matza meal and let it stand for about 20 minutes until cool. Mix everything together and roll into medium or small balls. Drop into

Chopped Beef Liver
1/2 kilo beef liver, 1 large onion, 3 tbsps. chicken fat or oil, salt and pepper to taste, 2 hard-boiled eggs, minced parsley, dash of chicken or beef soup powder. If you wish add ground almonds or even ground peanuts mixed with margarine.

Broil the sliced liver under a flame and on both sides. When the liver is cooled put everything through a meat chopper and then serve it on individual plates with any garnish you wish.

Lung-Liver Strudel
2 chopped onions, 4 tbsps. chicken or any other fat, or oil, 3 cups ground cooked lung, 1 cup ground grilled liver, 3 hard-boiled chopped eggs, salt and pepper to taste. If you wish add a whiff of nutmeg, paprika or even saffron.

Fry the onions in the fat and mix with the remaining ingredients. Then ready the strudel dough and sprinkle over it the melted fat and bake in a hot oven for about half an hour.

The strudel dough:
2 1/2 cups flour, 1 tsp. salt, 2 tbsps. margarine or oil or chicken fat, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup lukewarm water.

Mix the flour, salt, margarine, eggs and water. Knead well and beat with the rolling pin, or lift up and lash against table edge. Then allow the dough to rest for 15 minutes in a warm place. On a table put a cloth and dust it with flour. Roll out the dough and put it in the middle of the table, then stretch it on the back of your hands until it is paper thin. Spread the oil on it again. Cover the dough about half way with the filling, and roll up.

Chopped Chicken Liver
1/2 kilo chicken livers, 2 large onions, 3 tbsps. chicken fat or oil, 2 hard-boiled egg yolks, 1/2 tsp. salt, dash of pepper.

Dip the livers in ice-cold water and then grill them until all the blood has dripped off. Chop the onions and fry in the chicken fat. Put the livers, onions and hard-boiled egg yolks through the meat chopper. Add the seasoning and the fat from frying. If you have the patience to chop instead of grinding, the texture will be much better.

either a soup or boiling water with salt (1 litre with 1 tsp. of salt). Cover and let it stand for about half an hour.

Potato-Liver Knishes
3 cups mashed potatoes, 3 beaten eggs, 3 tbsps. oil or margarine or chicken fat, 1 1/2 tbsps. salt, dash of pepper, 3 tbsps. finely chopped onion, flour as needed, 1 1/2 cups mashed liver, dash of paprika and salt, 2 egg yolks, and 1 tbsps. water.

Mix the mashed potatoes with the beaten eggs, oil, salt, pepper and chopped onion. Add the flour to the potato mix to make a stiff dough. Roll out the dough and cut into squares or circles — about 3 centimetres thick. Push the dough in the middle of each square or circle and fill in the chopped liver with the paprika and salt, and fold over. Brush with an egg yolk, and 1 tbsps. water. Bake in a moderate oven for about 25 minutes and serve warm when the top is glazed.

Chinese physicians

By Alton Blakeslee
NEW YORK (AP). —

BIRTH control in China is achieving some successes, but "we cannot say the problem is totally solved," says a woman physician who has been called China's leading gynaecologist.

She is Dr. Lin Chiao-chin, 71, one of ten Chinese medical specialists engaged in a three-week tour of medical facilities and health programmes in the United States.

The People's Republic of China is estimated to have a population of up to 800 million people.

"In old China, to have many children was considered very lucky and a good fate," Dr. Lin told a news conference in Washington Sunday. It also was a kind of insurance policy that some children would survive despite a high infant mortality, she added.

Now the infant death rate has been sharply reduced, mainly in the big cities and this is related to general improvement in health care, including the educational efforts and vaccination programmes carried out by the "Barefoot Doctors" who tend to people mainly in rural areas, Dr. Lin said.

Florence's ready-to-wear shows

By Judy Owen
Senior Fashion Reporter

ROME. —

IF fashions were music, next spring would resound with the twang of a ukelele and the hot rhythms of the samba.

The advance word from the Italian fashion ateliers, whose boutique and luxury ready-to-wear collections are now on view in Florence, is that Hawaii and Latin America will provide the leitmotifs for spring and summer women's fashions.

Generally, however, the favourite point of departure for many of the 101 design and accessory houses showing this week are those old standbys of the 1960s, the shift-dress and the trench coat.

Skirts will remain firmly anchored at the knee for spring clothes while the very short mini is being revived for summer wear for the younger set. Trousers will also be offered for spring.

Among the promised revivals are non-geometric prints that range from modern interpretations of oriental ideograms to vivid Latin-look florals in colours like turquoise, apricot and wistaria.

Hair is likely to be shorter. One stylist, Sergio Valente, is promoting a boyish cut that can be washed at home under the tap and requires no set. Instead of blondes, this gentleman prefers something he calls "worn leather," a ruddy auburn.

The Florence luxury ready-to-wear collections in the sumptuous Palazzo Pitti, the renaissance palace built by the Medici banking family, draw buyers from all over the world.

These collections are the most important single showcase for Italian styles because of the large number of important buyers they attract, although the high fashion couturier collections shown in January and July still have more design prestige.

The showcase is economically important to Italy. No less than one million Italians are engaged in some phase of the fashion and textile industry, which represents an annual business volume of 4,500,000 million lire (over 3 million Israel pounds).

Equal pay parley in Brussels
Women paid less than men in every country

BRUSSELS (AP). — In no country does a woman earn as much as a man for the same job. This is the conclusion of a report to be presented at an International Trade Unions Conference on Equal Pay which opened here yesterday.

The Public Works Department has nearly finished resurfacing the Motza bend in the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv highway. The new, "skid-proof" friction coating — which P.W.D. officials said is decidedly not skid-proof for vehicles exceeding 60 kph. — is intended to cut down on the number of accidents which regularly plague this stretch, especially in winter.

Patients in Jeopardy

A STRIKE has become so much a matter to be taken for granted that little attention has been paid to the partial strike imposed this week by the doctors of Kupat Holim, who serve about two-thirds of the population of Israel, and the vast majority of its working population and their dependents. The strike is now no longer total — with only Saturday-style skeleton teams available — a sign that it may be prolonged, but the doctors are not coming back for the afternoon shift in the clinics, when people must go who cannot get time off from work earlier.

General, because during a previous period of administrative service with Kupat Holim in a lesser capacity he proved to be tough and determined. It is doubtful whether after such a beginning he will be able to obtain the cooperation of this huge organization, with its 3,000 doctors and much larger technical and administrative staff, although he might have made a capable director; the doctors even turned down a proposal for two joint directors-general, that is, Mr. Yadin and a physician.

The doctors declare that all they really want is to improve medical services by insisting on the appointment of a physician as the head of Kupat Holim, but it is not a convincing argument, for while some doctors choose to train in hospital management, the Director-General of Kupat Holim has organizational and public relations duties which go far beyond those required of any hospital head. For the doctors it has become a matter of prestige. Some may argue that their own working conditions will not be adjusted to their satisfaction until a doctor heads the organization, and that only if this were done could the service for the public be improved. This, of course, is mainly a matter of enough money to reduce the number of patients that a doctor must receive. Their salaries and fringe benefits have already been improved out of recognition over the past few years, and at the same time the ban on the receiving of private patients has been quietly dropped. This means not only extra income, but an opportunity to practise more leisurely, and more thorough medicine.

It remains to hope that the doctors themselves will take pity on their patients, and allow a way to be found out of the dilemma.

Meir speech in Knesset on Munich security

Devar (Eilat) writes: "In the nature of things, the issues of current security do not allow for frankness and deferring to the extent the public would wish. Within the context of such understandable limitations, however, the Prime Minister's statements were remarkable for clarity and candor." The paper takes note of Israel's response to terrorism: "It emerges clearly from Mrs. Meir's statements that Israel will not content herself merely with measures of security and defence. It would be a mistake to attempt to interpret previous statements by the Prime Minister as indicating such a minimalist trend."

dears: "This testifies that there is no intention of hiding matters concerning the extent of the responsibility of our services in the Munich tragedy. There is no place for Gahal's allegations that the public is being kept in the dark." Hamodia (Agudat Yisrael) notes: "This is the first time in the history of the Israeli bureaucratic machinery that senior state officials have been made to answer for negligence in the fulfilment of their public function."

Sidky's visit to Moscow

The current visit of Egyptian Prime Minister Sidky to the Kremlin cannot be expected to lead to a Russian reversal in policy on "aggressive" arms shipments to Cairo, the Daily Telegraph said in an editorial yesterday. The London Conservative Party paper commented: "What President Sadat hopes to achieve through Mr. Sidky's visit can scarcely be more than to re-establish normal contacts with Moscow, and — perhaps — to persuade Russia to continue supplies of spare parts and servicing for the large quantities of Soviet arms and equipment in Egypt. He certainly cannot expect Russia to reverse its decision not to supply advanced aggressive weapons which was the cause of last June's break."

"In a bitterly fought West German election campaign, one fact stands out — Chancellor Willy Brandt's Eastern policy (Ostpolitik) is not a major issue. His effort to build better relations with the Soviet Union, East Germany and other Warsaw Pact countries has even continued during the election drive, drawing nominal protest from the once-hostile Christian Union opposition parties.

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. — Rehov Beit Hakarem in Jerusalem has always been a remarkable street, designed for transport at the slow, sure-footed pace of donkeys and adapted for use as a superhighway. Here one can observe buses passing with the speed and agility of sports cars, and sports cars slipping along with an undaunted air. It is a tribute to the adaptability of the Israeli people that recent street excavations have not altered the pace of traffic.

Painstaking excavations are being carried out in this street — judging by the deliberate, almost imperceptible pace of the digging and the care with which each pile of rubble is sifted and moved. One wonders if the project is under the supervision of the Government Antiquities Department.

Pastoral serenity is seen in the large numbers of labourers always to be seen relaxing in the shade. The power of our modern industrial state can be viewed in the bulldozers, cranes, tractors, earthmovers and cement mixers on display, which frequently go into swifly, unexpected motion (they provide, in addition, entertaining challenges to the ingenuity of the bus and automobile drivers).

Israel's proudest achievement is her sevivot children, and their liveliness and courage can be observed here as nowhere else, in twice-daily performances — at 8 and 12 o'clock — as, en masse, they defy the likely death awaiting them under the wheels and tractor-treads of the heavy machinery along the main route to Beit Hakarem School and adjacent kindergarten and nursery schools.

Perhaps the matter could be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Transport, which could temporarily route all vehicles but those of residents of Rehov Beit Hakarem, down Edot Herzl and thus speed the completion of whatever project is being undertaken on this street by minimizing interference with the work.

This move would reduce the danger to schoolchildren using this street, the hazards of which must be seen to be believed. NANCY DATAN Jerusalem.

BALFOUR DAY 1972

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir — Last year your paper played a most significant role in ensuring the success of our "Ezra's Ark" programme which, as you are aware, took place on Balfour Day, November 2.

Over 100 British settlers from all over Israel opened their homes and hearts to over 2,000 new immigrants from many different countries and walks of life.

This year again, our National Executive is planning a similar immigrant absorption social evening when our Eilat/Oiel Britannia hosts will again be inviting to their homes new immigrants and in particular new arrivals from Russia, so they can all meet with veteran settlers.

We know from our experience and efforts last year that many new and meaningful friendships were created, as a result of this evening.

Many of our hosts have again expressed their desire to participate in his important project, we would also welcome any new volunteers from among your readers who would like to invite guests. We especially wish to invite new immigrants presently living in Ullanulim-Absorption Centres or Hostels to get in touch with any of our H.O.B. offices in Tel Aviv at S.A. Eyalzar Street; in Jerusalem at Mosdon Ha'Oleah, 9 Alkalei Street; or in Haifa at Mosdon Ha'Oleah, 124 Hanassi Avenue. We will be very happy put them in touch with our nearest host to welcome them.

Lenient sentences

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. — I am deeply disturbed when reading in your issue of October 4 that two men who committed indecent acts on two young children were sentenced to two and three years' prison respectively.

I have noticed over a period of time that sex offences from rape downwards seem to be treated as some kind of "mild offence."

on the children and women who are attacked can well last for the rest of their lives. Yet these people who roam the streets are seemingly allowed to return to society far too quickly. I honestly believe that the general public, through the medium of the press or any legal way they feel will help, should bring pressure on our authorities to review the situation that prevails.

Primary elections in Labour Party needed

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. — Political scientist Avraham Bricha may well be right when he concludes that proposed changes in the country's electoral system would only result in increased Labour Party domination and one-party rule ("Voting Change 'Would Produce One-Party Rule'," October 11). But the real problem, it seems to me, is not in the electoral system but in the party structure, particularly in the selection of candidates.

There seems to be little doubt that the Labour Party represents the views of most Israeli citizens (at least more than any other party) and will continue to do so for the foreseeable future. That being the case, it may be both counter-productive and anti-democratic to artificially enforce an unrepresentative division of power. But where one-party domination is a fact of political life, it is imperative that the people, and not the party hierarchy determine who that party's candidates will be in a given election.

The present system, under which a party whose dominance is a foregone conclusion is exclusively responsible for the selection of its own candidates, is simply incompatible with any meaningful definition of democracy. What is needed, I think, are primary elections. Primaries could be either local or national, depending on the nature of the contested office. The requirements for entry should be argued, but it is important that half a century's dedicated service to the party not be among them. Anyone who is at least 30 or 35 years old, who is an Israeli citizen, a registered member of that party, and who has collected, say, 5-10,000 signatures supporting his candidacy, might be eligible. A reasonable maximum campaign expenditure should be fixed, much if not all of it to be met by the party itself or by a special national fund set aside for the purpose.

Primaries can be costly and time-consuming, but in a nation as small as ours, they needn't be excessively either. In any case, time and money are a very small price to pay for genuinely democratic elections.

Soviet policy toward Jews said often irrational

AN attempt to analyse recent Soviet policy towards Jews from within has been made by an expert on the subject, Moshe Decter, in the New York Journal "Congress Bi-Weekly," (published by the American Jewish Congress). He starts with the warning that: Illogic is an integral and inextricable element of the whole Soviet system and public policy is often based upon irrationality. That fundamental irrationality is compounded of three essential components — the ideology, the system, and the policy. The ideology, he writes, has long become empty and corrupt, breeding cynicism, opportunism, neglect of human values, and near despair among the nobler spirits. The system, repressive and authoritarian, generates suspicion, arrogance and indifference to human values. The policies are characterized by great Russian chauvinism and exploitation of anti-Semitic prejudice. The Jews are the victims of a vicious circle of irrationality and contradiction which in the U.S.S.R. have been elevated to a modus operandi.

for exit permits to Israel and the spread of underground groups devoted to the study of Hebrew, Jewish history, Zionist texts.

Stage Two: Alarmed when this manifestation came into the open, the authorities undertook a huge propaganda campaign in January-March 1970. Ostensibly it was a concerted, nationwide chorus of condemnation of Israel and its policies. In fact, it was primarily aimed at discouraging the growing demand for emigration. It degenerated into an anti-Jewish campaign. Its climax was the press conference of March 1970 at which more than 40 prominent Jews loyal to the regime denounced Israel.

Stage Three: This was the immediate reaction to that press conference in which scores of Jews in many cities denounced the Jews who had participated and their right to speak for Soviet Jewry. (Forty disident Jews had the courage to ask the Foreign Ministry to arrange a new press conference at which their views could be expressed.)

Stage Four: The regime decided to turn the screws tighter. Procedures of intimidation against those who had applied for exit permits to Israel were stepped up and then came the mass nationwide arrests of Zionist activists. This culminated in the first Leningrad trial and its death sentences.

Stage Five: This lasted only a week or so and was characterized by the worldwide reaction of revulsion to the Leningrad sentences.

Stage Six: The commutation of the death sentences and the lightening of some prison terms were the result of a major Soviet policy decision on the highest levels — to respond to world opinion.

Stage Seven: An extension of the previous Stage. Serious reconsiderations in the Soviet hierarchy resulted in an increase in emigration to Israel which started at the end of February 1971 and has lasted to this day. This must have been accepted as the best course to be taken to appease world opinion and to defuse the movement of Jewish defiance (although in effect it only stimulated it).

Stage Eight: Alongside Stage seven, cruel irrationalities persisted and have plunged many Jews into frustration and despair. Jews who have applied for exit permits continue to be harassed at work, at school, and in their social life. They are often denounced as traitors, many Jewish students are expelled from university upon applying for emigration and in some cases educational diplomas are invalidated.

Quite a number of people with key technical and scientific qualifications are refused exit permits on the grounds that the country needs
